Cookies

Brabonet uses cookies (text files placed on your hard drive by a Web server) to analyze website traffic and performance. Cookies are not used to run programs or deliver viruses to your computer. They are uniquely assigned to your computer and can only be read by a Web server in the domain that issued the cookie to you.

We analyze this data for trends and statistics about page viewing frequency and sequence to improve our site and the services we offer. We do not link your IP address to anything personally identifiable. Nevertheless, you should know that, if necessary, an IP address, including yours, can and will be used to identify anyone responsible for threatening the integrity or security of the site or our computer systems and information networks.
